Happy Father's Day

I recently read this quote from a man in his fifties: "I have learned that the challenge of life is to decide what is important and to disregard everything else." What a great challenge that is! With so much in our lives that vies for our attention and priority, it can be very difficult to focus on the right things. We, as men and fathers, are often guilty of focusing so much on our careers, on making ends meet, or on meeting the demands of the world, that we often neglect what is really a much more important matter – our families. In fact, next to our relationship with God, there should be nothing that is more important to us than the relationships that we have within our own homes. As husbands and fathers, God has entrusted us with the awesome responsibility of leading and guiding our families both spiritually and physically. Consider just two of the many scriptures that speak to this truth:

"Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself for her."

(Eph. 5:25)

"Fathers, do not provoke your children to wrath, but bring them up in the
