RECONNECT

I love the summertime! School is out, vacations are scheduled, and family time is increased. For me personally, the summer months also bring a couple of weeks of camps, speaking engagements, and other work-related opportunities that I very much enjoy. All in all, the months of June and July are a busy, exciting, and special part of the year. However, in all of the hustle and bustle of summer activities, maintaining normal schedules and routines can be an almost impossible task. Time away, special activities, and distractions of all sorts can make the summer a chaotic time. For me, one of the victims of the summer season is my connection with the church family. Less time with and less focus on the family at Chase Park always causes me to feel a little disconnected. For these reasons, as much as I enjoy the summer, I am always thankful when August arrives and things begin to return to normal.

Connections with the church family are important. They provide encouragement, strength, edification, and support. I am reminded of the words of the Hebrew writer: "And let us consider one another in order to stir up love and good works..." (Hebrews 10:24) This exhortation is given just before telling them not to neglect meeting together. You see, one of the great purposes of the church, and one of the reasons that God designed it as He did, was to provide a community of support and encouragement for Christians. While our Sunday worship assemblies are important and commanded, they are only a part of what the church is made to do and be. When we make Sunday worship the totality of our relationship with the church, not only are we missing out on so many blessings from God, we are also failing to be the church that God wants us to be.

After a busy summer schedule, I am looking forward to reconnecting with you, my church family. I hope that you feel the same way and that, together, we can continue to worship, work, and grow in a way that glorifies God and that strengthens us individually and as a whole. May God bless us in that effort.
